From the Club President, Candace Mogavero

The importance of belonging to your national club. This is most important as we join the Miscellaneous Class. The content below is from the AKC website.

Your National Parent Club

Parent clubs are the national organizations that oversee the welfare of their breed. They host an annual specialty which is typically the largest breed event of the year, sometimes lasting a week, often rotating around the country, and including everything from seminars and field trials to art auctions and lavish banquets.

Some parent clubs are very inclusive about welcoming new members to the fold. If you have an interest in the breed, you are treated like family with a minimum of red tape. Others are more formal, requiring prospective members to have five or more years of documented involvement in the breed. Happily, most parent clubs offer an associate-level membership for newer people with less experience; associate members can't participate in elections but receive all the same educational benefits and perks that regular members do. They can also volunteer to work on committees and contribute to the club newsletter or magazine.

Since it is parent clubs that approve the formation of regional breed clubs, I've always thought it makes sense to be a member of both. Newcomers who want to learn about their breed and get to know the elder statesmen and women who shaped the breed should join the parent club. Introduce yourself to the club historian, the newsletter editor, the specialty show chair, and volunteer your skills wherever you think you can contribute.

For established breeder-exhibitors, membership in the parent club shows longtime commitment to the breed. A club's membership directory should read like a who's who of noteworthy fanciers. Annual membership dues are less than the cost of a weekend's dog show entry fees.

Facebook chatter is no substitute for membership in dog clubs. It's the clubs that hold events, and if that tradition is to continue, breeders and exhibitors must support our hardworking clubs. Whether a newcomer or revered breeder-exhibitor, there is a place for you in your local and national clubs.

In Memoriam, Pat McRae ~ The following was written by the long-time secretary of the Delaware Valley Havanese Club, Alison Brackman.

“Pat McRae and Candace Mogavero started the DVHC, then called the Northeast Regional Havanese Club, in 2000. Pat was new to dog fancy but always had big ideas and the smarts to go along with it, and Candi had a deep knowledge of dogs, training, and dog clubs. Together they bred Havanese under the kennel names of Ahavapicaro for Pat and Faireland for Candi. I met them at the Camden Dog show in 2000. Pat went to everyone ringside and spoke about a Fun Match in NJ in June. “Sign up for the contact list.” And so I did. I brought my 7-month-old pup to Candi Mogavero’s house in South Jersey for the fun match. Though I had 2 mixed-breed rescues, I was a complete newbie to purebred dogs. There I met Diane Koch, Marylou Mitchell, Gary and Myra Robinson. Everyone was happy, excited, sweating, friendly and amazing. Candi invited a friend to judge the event. Since we were all new to showing, Candi gave a lesson in going around the ring and putting our dogs on the table for examination. Then came the match. What fun! I have the honor of saying Milo won best puppy. I had done obedience work with one of my dogs and wanted to continue with Milo. I planned on neutering him. Candi and Pat practically made me make a blood promise not to neuter Milo and to show him in conformation, instead. In those days we begged one another to be at shows so that if there were 2 of us, at least one of us would get a point! I think part of the reason of asking me to show him was to get more folks in the ring. Lots of owner handlers then. Pat and Candi were so supportive of the DVHC members showing their own puppies. Gary Robinson showed Dixie to her Championship at their encouragement, Diane Koch was experienced in Dobermans and was new to toy dogs and successfully finished many. We all learned to groom our dogs and traded tips on products that were working for us. We all became fast friends.

Pat and Candi were determined to get our club recognized by the HCA and to get licensed. They each became President and Vice President of the club and taught the rest of us how to run a club. Candi was instrumental in beginning the club’s health clinics, scheduling matches and checking that the club was going through its paces to become licensed. Pat kept all the appropriate records.

Pat was a Professor of History at Muhlenberg College. She wrote, researched and was an academic through and through. She was very interested in the history of the Havanese breed and wrote about it. She was curious about anything techie and was one of the first to take digital photos and movies. She set up the club’s first internet communications via a blog on WordPress and then designed our club website.

She looked forward to retiring and being able to devote herself completely to her dogs and her many other interests. After she retired, she let me know she had the early signs of dementia. Pat relocated to Swansea, SC to be near her daughter Lisa and to have enough space to keep the dogs she loved so well.

I am grateful to her for pushing me to learn so many new things. Most of all I’m grateful to have known her and call her, friend. May her memory be a blessing to all who mourn.”

AMERICAN HISTORY OF THE RUSSIAN TSVETNAYA BOLONKA

Although there were Russian Tsvetnaya Bolonki imported into the United States before 2000, many did not have registration papers nor were their owners interested in developing the breed in this country. It was not until the year 2000 when AKC Judge and Havanese breeder, Mrs. Candace Mogavero, became interested in the breed and imported a female, Ladushka Ocharovashka from Elvira Romanenkova, did interest in the breed become apparent. The following year another Havanese breeder, Ms. Patricia McRae, joined Ms. Mogavero and two more dogs were imported, Ladushki Rostok and Ladushki Kudrjashka. By 2002 Ms. Mogavero and Ms. McRae were joined by two more Havanese breeders Ms. Jane Falkenstein and Ms. Nancy Holmes. Three more female Bolonkas, Aljapka, Ladushki TsaTsa, Ladushki Toska, and one male, Ladushki Schlegel were then imported from Russia.

Ms. Mogavero and Ms. McRae planned to breed and show the breed in the rare breed organizations and to one day bring the breed to the AKC for recognition. They knew to do this they needed the dogs registered in the US and to do that they needed a breed club. They formed the North American Russian Tsvetnaya Bolonka Club and established a registry so the dogs could have American registrations. Most of the litters born were under Ms. McRae's Ahavapicaro kennel name, while Ms. Mogavero did most of the showing of her dogs under her kennel name of Faireland Kennel and promoting the breed in the public eye.

Over the next few years, more breeders became interested in the development of the breed in this country and joined Ms. Mogavero and Ms. McRae in registering their imported dogs and puppies with the NARTB club. In the year 2015 the AKC accepted the breed into their Foundation Stock Service (FSS) and the club's name was changed to the Russian Tsvetnaya Bolonka Club of America.

On January 1, 2023 the breed advanced to the AKC Miscellaneous Class.

The Russian Tsvetnaya Bolonka is also actively shown on the Rare Breed Circuit where it is recognized by the American Rare Breed Association (ARBA) and the International Canine Kennel Club (ICKC)

Today the Bolonka breed has a growing population of enthusiasts who hope to one day reach the goal of full AKC recognition.

Show Like a Pro

As our Bolonka club membership and dog population grows, it's becoming more important than ever to have Bolonkas participate in AKC dog shows. It helps the breed progress from Miscellaneous to full AKC recognition and increases the popularity of the breed amongst dog fanciers. If you have a Bolonka you think could be a winner, you can send him or her out with a professional dog handler. It's a small investment that will potentially let you know how your dog stacks up against other Bolonkas in the show ring. You can also learn to show your dog as an Owner-Handler.

You can learn dog handling by watching and practicing at shows. There are also handling classes and seminars put on by a variety of organizations and some professional handlers. I recently participated in a handling seminar put on by Norma Smith, a retired professional handler (www.normasmithhandlingseminars.com). It was a two-day course split into a group for novices and a group for experienced owner-handlers. The seminar got me excited about showing my own dogs. It gives me the option of sending my dogs out with a handler and showing on my own, which can sometimes be less expensive. The seminar fees were very reasonable, and in my case, the seminar provided far more value than it cost.

A couple of key takeaways from the seminar were:

- Dog shows are one of the few sporting events in which professionals and amateurs compete in the same ring.
- Know the ropes so you don't detract from your dog's performance.
- There are handling techniques that enhance how your dog will be perceived by judges.
- Proper technique in stacking your dog will keep positive attention on the dog.
- Practice at home, like any other sport, will enhance your performance in the ring.
- A good seminar, like Norma Smith's, builds your confidence as a handler and creates a solid foundation to build on.

If you have handling or other dog show tips to share, please send them to Steve Waldman at pcnjsteve@gmail.com.

We will share them with the club in the next newsletter. We're also looking for contributors who would like to provide content and support the RTBCA Newsletter Committee. Please consider joining today.
